The College

A COLLEGE may be a proposition of difficult tasks to the ignorant, a gatherer of old-fashioned ideas to the supercilious, an opportunity for marriage to the wall-flower, a place for conducting gossip for the loquacious, a location for breaking rules for the unlawful, and an institute for insulting remarks for the dissatisfied. A college may be all these, but our college is a school of learning for those who would learn.

The Classes

THE classes of a college may consist of almost any number from two to four, but our classes are ones with four sections. In make-up, the students probably differ a shade, but as a whole they blend rather well. In temperament, they never become heated in arguments. But whatever our classes may be—whether frivolous and gay, serious and grave—you must admit they are "classy".

Eternity

All eternity is rushing in my soul,
For I feel the strength and weakness
Of the men in ages past
Whose shadows lie across my path;
And I hear the tears and laughter
Of these million unborn souls
Whose shadows falling at my feet
Mingle with those shadows of the past—Eternity,
All eternity is rushing in my soul
And I cry aloud to God, "Oh, who am I?"
And the earth gives back my cry, "Oh, who am I?"

On Writing A Class History

PSHAW!! Why do people insist on class histories being written anyway? Everybody always says the same old things. Pat Abernethy was freshman class president, Margaret Briggs sophomore class president, Rachel Biggs junior class president, and Annette Donavant senior class president. We sang the traditional Odd Spirit songs, yelled the Odd Spirit yells, gave and attended the required number of parties, were welcomed by our big sisters, and welcomed our little sisters in turn. Who is interested in hearing things like that? I'd like to tell people a few things they don't usually hear about classes, about our class in particular.

For instance, most people know that our mascot is the rooster, but how many know why? Chaucer's Chauntecleer is a good old bird, but we chose our mascot before we had made the acquaintance of that resplendent gentleman. It was like this. One night our freshman year the quiet which is always supposed to exist after light-bell was shattered by queer calls, which sounded like the crowings of roosters. The disturbance came chiefly from that always silent freshman hall. For some obscure reason the nightly crowing incurred a great deal of displeasure. And so it was that we chose the rooster for our mascot.

And I wonder how many students know what our campus is really like. No one appreciates its beauties until she crawls around under classroom buildings knocking her head against rafters and brushing cobwebs out of her eyes and mouth while searching for the crook, as we did when we were "jolly juniors." More than anything else the Junior-Senior Banquet is usually associated with the junior year. Incidentally, we associate it with that year too. We couldn't forget that struggle over finances, those days of making menus and place-cards, those hours of draping vines over rafters and of propping up wobbly pines in the dining room if we tried a million years.

And while I'm speaking of preparations, I wonder how many people who see the sophomores carrying the daisy chain down into the grove ever think about the practicing which goes on for weeks before that day. I'll never forget those cold spring mornings when we got up early and went marching around the buildings carrying ropes on our shoulders. I can hear the comments made by people in the dormitories and windows flying down as faculty and students were awakened by our melodious voices. And when we made the daisy chain itself! I have visions of girls and girls and girls picking daisies and daisies and more daisies in a meadow at sunrise. I also remember stained hands, black finger nails, and aching backs—mostly backs. What price daisy chains!

And now that we're seniors. Sh— Gently draw the curtain on our private life as we want to keep the respect of the courteous door-holders, if possible.

But to return to what I said before, why write histories of any kind? Isn't it the height of futility to write the history of a class which is just approaching commencement?

THE JUNIORS

Little Sisters

For the new student the first days of college are full of the tumult of life readjusting itself. There are books to be obtained, schedules to be straightened out, parties to be attended. The freshman is caught in the whirl of new activities. Those first days scarcely leave one time to think, so full are they of new friends and new occupations.

Yet, in all this confusion and bustle the new student becomes aware of an unseen spirit that is quietly but insistently revealing itself; gradually she comes to realize that there is something about the College that can not be interpreted as a mere obtaining of books and the attending of classes and parties. As Newman says, there is an intangible something that broods over every college and gives it its own life and atmosphere—something that is a product of all the generations of students who have been there.

Here at Meredith there is a spirit which is such a part of our lives. And there are traditions here which are a part of this moving spirit, customs, which are more tangible and concrete than the spirit itself. Among these are traditions peculiar to the Junior Class alone. The hunt for the crook, the wearing of the junior coat, the Junior-Senior Banquet, the big sister custom—these are all traditions which are associated especially with the Junior Class.

The most important of these is the big sister tradition. This, it seems, developed gradually and naturally along with the College itself. In the very earliest days the juniors adopted the freshmen, protecting them especially from the attacks of the much-feared sophomores. Under the guardianship of the juniors the freshmen organized and elected their officers. This relationship existed, at first, between the two classes, not between individuals, but even then there was a strong feeling between the two classes. We find accounts of the big sisters helping their little sisters to organize, of the little sisters entertaining their big sisters, of the little sisters carrying a daisy chain when their big sisters graduated. After a while the members of the Junior Class adopted individual little sisters, thus creating a more personal band between the two classes. In this way the tradition has come to us today.

The traditions of our College are very dear to us. They have come to us from the first Meredith girls and have been cherished by all those who followed them. We want to see them perpetuated. As big sisters we feel that it is especially our privilege to preserve them. We want to help our little sisters learn these traditions and the spirit back of them. This is the duty of big sisters—to transmit to the new classes all the old customs which have grown up in the life of Meredith girls, to teach them to love and cherish them. As they come to know and love the spirit of Meredith, they will cherish it even as we do, and in their turn hand it down to the little sisters of the future.

THE SOPHOMORES

Sayings of a Soph

Recently, because of a burning desire to know just why those of us engaged for our second year in a college curriculum are given the appellation sophomore, I traced the word to its source. I was bitterly chagrined to discover that it was formed from the Greek words sophos, meaning wise, and moros, meaning foolish. According to the opinion of several of my learned associates the meaning derived from these sources is only partially correct, the latter part being untrue as well as inappropriate. In our youth we were foolish perhaps, if a free, impetuous abandon which we have been told was quite charming, may be termed foolish; but from these, our embryo selves have emerged calm, efficient women. As we look back upon the naïve, unawakened children who were enrolled here over a year ago, the realization of our great progress and advancement is brought home to us with a clear force. Perhaps the term could have applied to us then with all accuracy, but in our present state of enlightenment it is inappropriate, irrelevant. By our patient industry and deep penetration we have reached the state of profound erudition to which we aspired long ago.

It is from this standpoint we resent the untrue title foolish, and we say this with the utmost modesty and humility. Our wisdom is proverbial. No one denies that our mental faculties have been highly developed, and we could say quite truthfully that our present state is more nearly ideal than that of any other group upon the campus. This is not a bombastic statement uttered with an assumed magisterial air of a pompous opinionated individual, but is the opinion of scholars. The younger groups are aspiring to reach our state; the older have passed on and are looking back. Theirs is the deplorable realization that the ideal mental and physical state is past, and in their endeavor to recapture the transitory existence which they have left behind, they become foolish. Their actions are by turns puerile and sophisticated. We feel no animosity towards them. We can witness their agony with lament, but have no means of affording consolation to the sufferers. They have met Fate, the inexorable and implacable, and the consequent alterations are unavoidable for them.

The prolific soil of our minds was sowed and our poise and polished ease are but the issuing harvest. The germ of perfection which, according to Shelley, is in everyone's heart, has blossomed forth in beauteous flowers. We will not deny that this harvest has been unusually copious, for false modesty is a quality we have no pretentions of claiming, and it would be a mere dissipation of time to exert ourselves further in rehearsing to you the numerous points in which we differ from others. By the acclamations expressed by you, the public, I know that you are aware of them already. This gratuitous testimony of approbation and countenance, indicating the love and respect which is our reward for meritorious conduct is met with gracious acknowledgment of the same.

THE FRESHMEN

We Like Being Freshmen

This business of being a freshman is fun! Pardon us if we seem to defy the long-established tradition of the College that a freshman's life is an unhappy one. The idea may seem revolutionary, but we mean what we say. We are not just being cheerful martyrs or anything of the sort, either. Last year in high school we had to be dignified; now we can relax, be ourselves and let other people uphold the reverend tradition, and do we like it? Well, I think so; what do you think?

Let seniors be blasé, juniors superior, and sophomores wise, to their hearts' content. We are satisfied to be those little rays of sunshine commonly called freshmen. Who wants to be dignified, anyway? Why should you like people to think you know everything? They are bound to find out the truth some day, and then what does it profit you? We have no reputation to carry on, and we don't care a birdseed about being looked up to. As a freshman said the other day, "People expect us to be dumb. Why disappoint them?" We haven't learned l'art de bien dire; we have no savoir faire; but we know plenty and the half about joie de vivre. Believe you us.

Of course, there are certain things that the upper classmen do expect us to do, such as to be polite and humble when they are around. But that doesn't bother us. As a matter of fact, we like to open doors and hold them open; it is such a pleasant feeling to have somebody grateful to us for once. On the other hand, just think of everything the upper classmen do for us; such, for instance, as giving us parties, teas, and picnics. What could be more fun than being "rushed" by a club or society. This joining a club is no bed of roses, though, as we jolly well found out. Those wily initiators annoyed us somewhat, but what is a little grease, hot water, dirt, and suffering among friends? It amounts to nothing at all, my dear, just nothing at all. (You'd better take that last statement with a grain of salt, not at its face value.)

Some cynical person has said that college is the place where you have to go to find out there is nothing in it. My dear sir, we beg to contradict. We had dreamed of coming to college for many years, and at last our dreams are being realized—we're here! It's even better than we thought, and there's a very good reason. We, as freshmen, have almost all the pleasure but very few of the responsibilities of college students. The fate of the world doesn't rest on our shoulders as yet. We have an excuse for being carefree and lazy. We're freshmen, and we know when we are well off. However, according to Elbert Hubbard, we are not so dumb, after all, for "an ignoramus is one who flatters himself that he is educated." We know we are not educated, therefore we are not ignoramuses.

P.S. If we didn't like being freshmen, we wouldn't tell anybody.

In preparing this volume of the OAK LEAVES for publication, the editors have received help from many sources. We wish to thank the Benson Printing Co., the Jahn and Ollier Engraving Co., and the Dunbar and Daniel Studio for their helpful co-operation and willing service in the preparation of the book. In particular, we wish to thank Mr. W. A. Daniel of the Benson Printing Co. for contributing the beautiful sketches which appear on our four main book divisions. To Miss Harris and Mr. Canady we owe a large debt of gratitude for their expert advice and assistance. Finally, we wish to express our appreciation to the Lewis Sporting Goods Store, to the Milburnie Riding Academy, and to Ellisburgs for properties which they so generously put at our disposal for the making of the feature pictures.

Philaretia

Behold in shining raiment dressed,
She stands; in silence bow.
High honor sits upon her breast;
A white flame blazes in her breast.
And stars upon her brow.

Look up and listen while she speaks,
In solemn tones and slow.
She points to radiant mountain peaks,
Where morn reveals her first grey streaks,
To weary souls below.

She calls us to her house of light
Beneath her azure dome;
"Come, daughters, walk with me in white
Above the glooming realms of night;
Build here your highland home.

"Let Virtue feed her vestal fire
Within each holy fane.
Let fearless Truth with flaming ire
Consume the breath of base desire,
And rule without a stain."

Lead on, O Philaretia fair,
Lead upward day by day;
Thy violet banner in the air,
Thy daughters all will highly dare;
Brave mother, lead the way.

Song of the Astrotektons

See thy children, Mother Astro,
Sisters of the gold and white
Bow before thee in thy beauty,
Thankful for thy wondrous light.
Now we bring our girlhood treasures,
And we lay them at thy feet—
Waiting for thy benediction
And thy bidding, always sweet.
Astro, Mother Astro,
From the mountains to the sea;
Astro, Mother Astro,
We have come in love and gladness to be led by thee.
Now we feel thy hands upon us,
Hands so loving and so strong,
That the touch fills every daughter
With a purpose and a song.
Lift your heads, ye Astro maidens,
Look into her starlit eyes,
Then go forth to life and duty,
With a zeal that never dies!
Astro, Mother Astro,
With a love that grows not old;
Astro, Mother Astro,
See us rally 'round thy banner,
Dear old white and gold.

OFFICERS

PAT ABERNETHY . . . . . President
VARA LEE THORNTON . . . . . Vice-President
MARY ALLYN LEWIS . . . . . Secretary
VIRGINIA SCOTT . . . . . Treasurer

It has been the purpose of the A. A., for the past year, not only to foster a greater and more vigorous interest in athletics for the sake of class honor, but also to build up a more militant spirit of sportsmanship and love of sport for sports' sake. It has also been our aim to include more and more of the members of the student body in the activities of the association. In these purposes, we believe we have had some degree of success. There were over a hundred girls—one-third of the resident students—out for hockey and basketball, and an even greater number took part in tennis tournaments. A smaller but representative group engaged in the other sports.

In the fight for the possession of the hockey and basketball cups, a splendid spirit has been displayed, and competition has been strong from start to finish. The winners of the other tournaments have been equally hard pressed. A great deal of athletic prowess has been displayed—from that of little Mildred Eaton, who won the stick presented to the best freshman hockey player, to that of the habitual winners of varsity positions. It is with great interest that we look forward to commencement and the announcement of the awarding of the Victory Trophy to Meredith's Best All-Round Sport.

Varsity Hockey

"Kitten" Boswell, '36, plays like a streak of greased lightning, and is an accurate passer on the run.

Undine Weeks, '35, is a fine and dependable goalie and difficult to get by.

Henrietta Castlebury, '36, is one of the fastest halfbacks on the campus. She tackles and passes with deadly accuracy.

Ella Lee Yates, '34, is one of the best defensive players on the campus. A lot of the success of the championship Junior team is due to her.

"Pat" Abernethy, '33, plays a steady, dependable game and is equally good at offensive and defensive.

"Kat" Davis, '34, is a defensive star. Only those who have tried to put a ball past her can fully appreciate the thoroughness with which she tackles.

Ruth McCourry, '34, is a mainstay on the Junior team and one of the best on the defensive.

Martha Davis, '34, is one of the best of the offensive stars, directing the play by accurate passing and rapid dribbling.

Vara Lee Thornton, '34, specializes in getting down the field to receive passes. Her ability in this line made her invaluable to her team.

Eleanor Rozar, '34, is about the fastest wing Meredith has produced.

Mildred Eaton, '36, is outstanding for her versatility. She plays any position with equal facility.

Virginia Scott, '35, has been the main cog in the Soph defense for two years.

Mae Marshburn, '35, plays a flashy, dependable game and seems all over the field at once.

"Speck" Harris, '33, has her own particular way of stopping a ball, but one seldom gets past her.

"Tecky" Hayes, '34, plays a steady, dependable game and is a bear on the defensive.

Varsity Basketball

"Kat" Davis, '34, plays a beautiful game and can always give her guard plenty of trouble.

Virginia Scott, '35, sticks like glue and is one of the most troublesome guards on the campus.

Henrietta Castlebury, '36, simply can't be beaten when it comes to sticking on the ball. Her passing, dribbling, and speed make her the outstanding guard of the season.

Ella Lee Yates, '34, is a fast and accurate forward and is terribly hard to stop.

"Kat" Hawkins, '33, certainly lives up to her name. She is one of the best ball hawks there is, and her guarding is hard to beat.

Ruth McCourry, '34, that jack-rabbit mountaineer, seems all over the court at once. She's a deadly center.

Dorothy Dockery, '36, is one of the fastest and cleanest guards on the campus. "Doppy" is hard to beat for general all-round ability and sticking-plaster guarding.

Flaval Bullard, '36, has proved a mainstay to her team. We have yet to see a forward she can't bottle up.

Mary Allyn Lewis, '35, is a fine all-round player and passes with deadly accuracy. She leads the Soph offense.

Louise Helsabeck, '36, has saved the day for the Freshmen on many an occasion with her famous back-bend. Fast, light on her feet, easy-going, it is extremely difficult for guards to stop her.

Mae Marshburn, '35, is the best of the Soph defense. She plays hard and clean and is death to forwards.

"Kat" Liles, '36, is as game a p'ayer as we have ever seen. Her all-round ability and splendid spirit made her an excellent leader for the Frosh.

"Pat" Abernethy, '33, a good passer and a clean player, has led the Senior offense for four years.

"Ginny" Garnett, '34, a fast and troublesome guard, has been the leader of the Junior defense for three years. "Ginny" is hard to beat.

Champions All

Mildred Eaton won the hockey stick given by the Junior Class to the most outstanding Freshman hockey player. Eaton's sportsmanship and all-round ability won her this coveted honor.

"Kat" Davis—Just before sending the discus for a ride.

Martha Davis broke the Meredith record for the javelin throw.

"Alley up! little Rosie." Rozar reaches for a high one.

The gang gets the jump on the pistol.

McCourry won the victory trophy for 1932—awarded to the best all-round athlete on the campus.

No, this isn't a Bolshevist bomb-throwing contest. It's only Pat heaving the shot for a hefty distance.

"Jo" Arnette, singles champion for 1932.

"Kat" Davis and Ruth McCourry, doubles champions for 1932.

McCourry clears the bar for a record.

Lil Uher scores a bull's-eye to start things moving with a bang.

Bennett up— Eaton behind the bat—Let's go!

Minor Sports

Speed—and plenty of it—has characterized all the sports this year. In hockey, basketball, baseball, tennis, and track, the play has been fast and furious.

More power to you, kids!

Meredith Loyalty Song

Rah, rah, rah, it's Meredith for me!
Rah, rah, rah, we'll ever loyal be!
We'll keep on striving through our college days
To serve her and to spread her fame always.
Rah, rah, rah, we'll carry on for her!
Rah, rah, rah, our efforts she will spur!
Where e'er we go we'll sing her praise—
MEREDITH, HIP, HIP, HOORAY!

—PAT ABERNETHY, '33.

Hearts Are Loyal

Hearts are loyal, love is true,
When we lift our praise to you,
Come every heart and come every hand,
Cheer the best college in the land.

CHORUS

Oh, Hi, Hi, Hi, we're all together,
Hi, Hi, Hi, Hi, nothing can sever
Hearts that adore you, hearts that uphold you.
Here's a ringing cheer for you, our Meredith!

—MARY LEE, '32.

HERE AND THERE—

ABOUT OUR CAMPUS

Alma Mater

We salute thee, Alma Mater, we salute thee with a song;
At thy feet our loyal hearts their tribute lay;
We had waited for thy coming, in the darkness waited long,
Ere the morning star proclaimed thy natal day.

Thou hast come through tribulation, and thy robe is clean and white!
Thou art fairer than the summer in its bloom.
Thou art born unto a kingdom, and thy crown is all of light;
Thou shalt smile away the shadow and the gloom.

In thy paths the fields shall blossom, and the desert shall rejoice.
In the wilderness a living fountain spring;
For the blind shall see thy beauty, and the deaf shall hear thy voice,
And the silent tongues their high hosannas sing.

Where the rhododendron blushes on the burly mountain's breast,
In the midland where the wild deer love to roam,
Where the water-lily slumbers, while the cypress guards its rest,
Lo! Thy sunny land of promise and thy home.

Where the sons of Carolina taught a nation to be free,
And her daughters taught their brothers to be brave;
O'er a land of peaceful plenty, from the highlands to the sea,
May thy banner, Alma Mater, ever wave!

Homemakers of Tomorrow

Graduation is one step further toward the ultimate goal of every young woman—an efficient homemaker.

A college education has placed you in a position to plan intelligently. To assist you in carrying out those plans efficiently, economically and quickly is womankind's most versatile servant—ELECTRICITY.

Instantly—as quickly as the thought that calls it—electricity springs into service at the snap of a switch. It performs every household task, yet shows no sign of fatigue. Best of all, its benefits may be enjoyed at a cost so low that pennies will pay for its service.
